Then a change came and David was left to the care of grandfather folk in whom the warmth of kindness was buried deep. But "Just David" brought music and sunshine into many lives and played a part in a very pretty romance.

EXETER

Exeter, Sept. 9.—Lieut. Henry P. Bullis, Jr., who committed suicide at a hotel in Dayton, O., is well remembered here when he was a student at the Phillips-Exeter academy. He was prominent in many branches of school life. He makes the second graduate of the school to die within a week, the other death being that of Lawrence E. Bullard at Nogales, Ariz., who died of typhoid fever.

Commencing with this week there will be a continuance of politics as the various caucuses to choose delegates to the Senatorial convention will be held. Exeter's Republican gathering for the purpose will be held on the evening of Sept. 17, and at Newfields on the evening of Sept. 11. As yet the local Democrats have not chosen the date of their caucus.

Luke Lighton, one of Exeter's representatives to the last Legislature, yesterday was congratulated on his 65th birthday, and the event was made more memorable as it fell on the Sunday as Gen. Lafayette's, which was observed in many sections. Mr. Lighton, who conducts an antique furniture store, made the day appropriate by displaying a pitcher which was a souvenir of the visit of Gen. Lafayette to this country and this section in 1824. The pitcher bears the likeness of the great French general, and also the inscription "In memory of the visit of Gen. Lafayette to America 1824."

Another display was a book on the "Private Life of Lafayette," of an antique dealer and publisher. Mr. Lighton is a native of Maine, but has been a resident here for 35 years.

Cut the Cost of Mileage

When you see a car puffing and panting up steep hills and over rough roads when it really ought to move along as easily and as steadily as a brook glides in its course—blame it on inferior gasoline.

The use of poor gasoline, whether for limousine, touring car, roadster or motor truck, is always extravagant waste.

In these days there is no excuse for such waste. Buy high mileage and full power. Buy SO-CO-NY Motor Gasoline.

SO-CO-NY is the surest economy. It means more miles per gallon. It is clean—powerful—quick-starting—reliable.

Look for the Red, White and Blue SO-CO-NY Sign. SO-CO-NY means saving wisely. It cuts the cost of mileage.

Americans Turned the Tide.

When Lord Reading, British ambassador to the United States, said in an address to American soldiers in France the other day that it was the coming of the Americans that turned the tide he said what the whole world, including Germany, knows to be true. The British, the French and the Italians had fought nobly and done their best to slay the progress of the Teutonic hordes, but time and again they had been driven back by superior numbers.

There never was a time when the Allies believed they would be ultimately defeated, but they had their discouraging days. What they needed was more man-power and they looked longingly to the United States for the reinforcements which the Germans said could never be supplied by this country, at least "in time."

But the reinforcements were sent, and in numbers that tell a story as gratifying to the Allies as it was surprising to the German leaders. But the real importance of these reinforcements did not consist in mere numbers. The number of men was small in comparison with the size of the contending armies, but the men were full of spirit and determination, and their arrival cheered and strengthened the forces that had been bearing the brunt of the German drives, and from that hour there has been a new order of things. The history of the fighting for many weeks past is familiar to all. The tide of battle was turned when the Yankees got into the work and has been running steadily against the invaders from that day to this.

The United States has shown that it can send troops and supplies across the ocean in spite of all that the U-boats can do, and the men who have gone over have shown what kind of stuff Americans are made of. They have proved that it does not take a generation to make a soldier out of the right sort of material, and they have taught the Kaiser and his hosts that they are not the weaklings which they had been imagined to be. Germany today realizes very thoroughly that it is not safe to "underestimate the enemy."

The American soldiers on the Western front have covered themselves with glory and reflected the greatest credit on the nation that sent them. Before them and the Allied forces the Germans have been hurrying backward in disorder, and they are still going, not having been given time thus far to prepare for a stand. The famous Hindenburg line has been broken and still the pressure continues.

With such a record made in so brief a time there is no room for doubt as to what the ultimate outcome must be. American forces are still going over in increasing numbers, there is no lack of supplies and equipment, and it is only a question of time when the Germans will be pressed beyond the Rhine and compelled to fight on their own soil if they are foolish and pig-headed enough to continue to fight in a hopeless cause.

The American soldiers have spoken for themselves, their country and the world, and what they have done and are doing is known around the world. And they will continue to do until there is nothing further to be done to rid the world of the greatest menace that ever threatened civilization and all that liberty-loving peoples hold dear.

The latest word on the fuel situation is that there will be no shortage next winter because the railroads will be able to handle all the coal that will be needed. And yet many people still have empty bins in spite of the fact that they obeyed the injunction to order their coal early.

The United States is now the leading shipbuilding country of the world. Work along this line has been pretty lively here for the last year or two, and it is a pleasure to say that the local plants are doing their share toward building up the splendid record.

The Senate has adopted another resolution authorizing the president to establish "dry" zones. If this sort of thing keeps on there will be nothing to prohibit by the time the prohibitionists get their pet measures clinched.

Politically speaking, Concord will be the busiest city in the state this month. Four state conventions are to be held there and the very atmosphere will be surcharged with politics.

Turkey has ordered the commander of the forces in Persia to see that no Americans are molested. Respect for America and Americans appears to be on the increase.

"We will continue," says Marshal Foch. And by this time the Germans must have come to realize that when Marshal Foch says anything he means it.

The German mark is shrinking in value. A clear case of mark-down.

FINE TRIBUTE PAID LATE SEN. GALLINGER

The people of Portsmouth in common with other New Hampshire citizens will appreciate the fine tribute paid to the memory of the late Senator Gallinger as printed in the September number of The Protectionist. The article is by the pen of Winthrop L. Marvin, from which an abstract follows:

American protection, writes Mr. Marvin, has lost one of its foremost champions in the death of Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire. He had been long the senior of all Senators in continuous service, and he was the chosen leader of his side. A stalwart of stalwarts, of unshaken Republican protectionist faith, his sincerity was so manifest and his courtesy so constant that to the last he commanded in a remarkable degree, the regard and even the affection of the Democratic membership of the Chamber.

Some of the tariff speeches of Senator Gallinger are protectionist classics. He had a retentive memory, and a graphic method of presenting facts with a fine grasp of fundamental economic principles. He represented a state which owed its life to the protective system, sustaining a wide variety of manufactures on a soil where agriculture alone was insufficient and where in the period of his public career the building and sailing of ships, from which New Hampshire first drew its wealth, had almost entirely departed.

As a member of the great Senate Committee on Finance and on Commerce, Senator Gallinger came very close to the vital interests of the nation, after he had rendered valuable service as a member and chairman of the Committee on Pensions. He was a most methodical worker, with an instinctive aptitude for public affairs, and his administration of the complex business of the Committee on the District of Columbia endeared him particularly to the people of Washington, whom he knew and loved. To his sagacious judgment is attributable much of the well-considered work which is rapidly making the National Capital the most beautiful city in the world.

There was nothing which in later years lay nearer the heart of Senator Gallinger than the task which in succession to his old friend, Senator Frye of Maine, he had undertaken of arousing Congress and the country to the dangers of our years of neglect of the American Merchant Marine. As he said in his report of 1905, as chairman of the Merchant Marine Commission:

"American shipping in the foreign trade has been for forty or fifty years, the only American industry exposed directly to foreign competition that has not been protected by the Government. There is no need to look beyond this one sentence for an explanation of the hard fact that this is the one American industry that has huddled and shrunk while all others have made prodigious increase. And yet this industry was once almost the mightiest in America. The American merchant fleet from 1880 to 1890 was the second in size and the most enterprising, efficient, and profitable in existence. But throughout most of that time it was a protected industry."

The war, writes Mr. Marvin, has now brought to all men an extraordinary vindication of his arguments.

Senator Gallinger lived to see some of his sharpest opponents in the Northwest pilloried for disloyalty in the months that preceded our own entrance into the great conflict overseas. The German propaganda—before the war—was directed to prevent the development of American shipbuilding and navigation—for motives which are now perfectly understood.

Senator Gallinger lived to see, also, a Democratic Administration and a Democratic Congress completely abandon their traditional attitude of laissez faire, and expend in eager haste from the public treasury not the few modest millions which he and Senator Frye had asked, but literally billions for the encouragement of American shipbuilding, the creation of a supply and transport fleet and the increase of the naval reserve. In all maritime history never were such subsidies seen as those which President Wilson and his lawmakers are now bestowing on a merchant tonnage which after the war must by law come into private control and operation.

The above cut is that of Joseph Sussman, son of Harry Sussman, and one of the popular Portsmouth boys who is in the struggle for Democracy "Over There."

Young Sussman, who is 22 years of age, was one of the draftees who went with the second quota from this city. He was in training at Dartmouth College and later was assigned duty in the National Army at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., and later at Camp Gordon, Ga. He has been in France since last April.

He is a graduate of the Portsmouth high school and also studied a year at the Lowell Textile School where he won honors for excellence in chemistry. He later entered New Hampshire College from which institution he was graduated in 1917, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts. While at the local high school he became a member of the school foot ball team and also the basket ball. At New Hampshire College he was on the freshman foot ball team.

The following is an extract from a letter he wrote "Somewhere in France" on Aug. 14 and received by his parents in this city on Saturday:

Dear Folks:
According to an Indian prophet in our regiment this war is supposed to be over today but I am afraid it will be good for a year and a half more. We have been behind the lines for about a week now drilling and we expect to leave here soon. The weather has been very good here but I often

REV. R. H. HUSE OF CONCORD SPEAKER

At the meeting for enlisted men at the Y. M. C. A. building on Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock, Rev. Raymond H. Huse, pastor of one of the Methodist churches at Concord, gave the address.

It was more of an informal talk and was listened to with deep appreciation by the large number in attendance. Rev. Mr. Huse said if he chose a text for the talk he should take it from a verse in Romans which read, "There is no difference."

He spoke of a number of human characteristics and said these were marked in the life of Christ.

His first spoke of laughter, saying that Jesus was around where there was joy and happiness; that the gladdest thing in life is the sound of baby laughter. He referred to the laughter of bayonet and said one can tell character by what people laugh at, as a person with a coarse nature will laugh at the coarsest jokes. He spoke of the man who sees the mote in his brother's eye, but has a stick of timber in his own which should be removed first.

The speaker said we all shed tears for there is something in each of us that responds to tenderness. A third characteristic, he spoke of was the love of singing. He said every one sings, even though he will not always own it, and the sense of music generally responds to something fine in the soul. He also referred to the hymn singing spoken of in the Bible. He next referred to talking as a characteristic of man and said it is not so much for one's expressions in words as it is a craving for companionship. He referred to one prominent man who at one time showed his love of nature by preferring to pass much time alone in the fields and woods, yet later this very man urged people to come to hear him lecture. Some one, the speaker said, spoke of Christianity as not only the art of living right but the art of dying together. This characteristic was marked in the life of Christ, who went among the people.

Rev. Mr. Huse then said that every one prays although some do not realize they do, but that we were all made with joints in our knees and shins in our hearts. Every one lights the speaker said; this being a sort of heritage from the animal creation. When we get human we are fighting for ourselves and the existence of others. Christ, the speaker said, was one of the greatest of all fighters, as he gave his blood for the world, and we all should fight for the right.

Previous to the address a hearty praise service was held, led by District Secretary Bailey. Miss Susan Northwick, pleasantly rendered a vocal solo and flute solos were finely given by Martha Damm of the Naval Band, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Randall at the piano. Mr. Damm has given his services for several Sundays at the local Y. M. C. A. meetings, and has played at the services at the prison and at the Marine chapel at the Navy Yard. District Secretary Bailey spoke of this at the meeting on Sunday afternoon, expressing much appreciation of Mr. Damm's work at these services.

wish I were back home to enjoy the same weather there.

"Three of us took a walk over to a large town and on my way back we saw our first airplane fight. Two Germans came over the city and immediately all the anti-aircraft guns opened fire on them and it looked as if they would bring them down, as the shots were breaking pretty close to them. Then all at once the game stopped and two French planes came out of the sky and went after them. They would dive and then open up with their machine guns and finally they sent one German down in flames. All the French people were out in the streets watching it and they were delighted when the Frenchman got him."

"I have been passing some of my time roaming around the country but there is not much excitement as we always get billeted in a small town and the big towns are not like ours at all. They have no moving pictures or entertainments of any kind and the Americans furnish all the excitement."

"We had a band concert the other night and some American moving pictures written in French. It was pretty good fun trying to read the French and then see the meaning illustrated on the screen. Love to all!"

NAVY YARD NOTES

Much Interest in Game

The interest in the deciding game in the Navy Yard League is at high pitch. The boat shop team and the shipfitters will both have plenty of backing for the game on Wednesday. The boat builders say they have the game bottled up already but the iron workers think that the boat shop will be on the small end after Wednesday's game.

Jewish Service Held.

The religious services connected with the Jewish New Year were conducted by Rabbi Herzlitz of Chelsea at the Naval Prison. Between 60 and 70 men of that faith took part in the same.

Girls on the Job.

The days when boys did messenger work at the local yard seem to have passed for the present at least. The fact that boys are returning to school and seeking employment in other places has made it necessary to use female operators for the work.

Big Day's Work.

Between 200 and 300 male and female employees reported for duty at the yard today in the Industrial Department and kept the official force busy with the preliminary work which follows a call from the labor board.

Board Makes Report.

The board of inquiry on the death of Seaman P. J. O'Brien and Miss Monahan, a yeogirl, killed at Hampton Falls on Thursday last, has made a report to the commandant of the local yard which in turn has been forwarded to Rear Admiral Wood, commanding the First Naval District at Boston.

Football Next.

The prison baseball league will wind up Sept. 21. The football season will then open with four teams to contest on the gridiron among the men of the prison.

Will Report Thursday.

Constructor R. W. Ryden, who will succeed Constructor R. T. Schlusbach as shop superintendent in the Industrial Department, will report for duty at the local yard on Thursday next, coming from the bureau of construction and repair.

Two More Chiefs.

Miss Ellen A. Bowden of Kittery and Miss Teresa Crowley of this city have recently received the appointment of chief women yeomen.

ment of chief women yeomen.

Forwarded to the Department. This finding in the hearing concerning a master mechanic and the working force in one of the Industrial Department shops, which was heard several weeks ago, has just been placed in the hands of the department at Washington by the local board sitting on the case.

Principal Frank E. Dunfield of the Portsmouth High School, goes to Middletown, Conn., on Oct. 10 as principal of the high school there with an enrollment of 650 pupils. Mr. Dunfield came here 5 years ago from the Milford high and has made hosts of friends here. He has made an excellent record with the school and his leaving will be regretted. The high school committee offered Mr. Dunfield an increase in salary but he could not refuse the one at Middletown.

WILL PLAY AT ROCHESTER

WAR BOARD BUSY WITH REGULATIONS

The local war board is having its hands full getting ready for the registration which takes place on Thursday, when everybody not already registered between the ages of 18 and 45, inclusive, must register. Owing to the great number of people who are here at the navy yard and shipping plants there has been a great demand for absentee registration.

Friday and Saturday Messrs. Spinnery and Marvin of the War Board were at the L. H. Shattuck and the Atlantic ship yards registering the men who are away from home, so that they would have time enough to get their cards home to their own local office. This morning they will finish up with the men at the Atlantic Heights, where there are several hundred who desire to register.

In the meanwhile the clerk at the local board has been busy for the past week registering the strangers, and at the same time getting out the supplies for the town clerk in this district. From now on it means that the members of the board will devote all of their time to their registration and the classification which can hardly be completed under two months.

BODIES SENT HOME FOR INTERMENT

The bodies of the two victims of the auto accident at Hampton Falls on Thursday evening, were shipped to their home on Saturday from the naval hospital at the yard. That of Yeager, Miss Mary A. Monahan was taken to Malden, Mass., for services and interment, and that of Seaman P. J. O'Brien to South Boston for interment. The shipments were made under the direction of O. W. Ham.

NEW PRIORITY LIST ISSUED

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Sept. 8.—A priority list of industries was announced by the War Industries Board today. They consider it the master key of the issuance of the priority orders for fuel transportation, etc.
The inclusion of the preference list does not operate as an embargo against the others, but it defines the order in which they will be given fuel, etc.
The industries have been classed in four classes: (1) Fuel for domestic residences, apartment houses and restaurants in all classes, as well as railroads, army and navy, air craft factories, ships and shipyards, war, chemical factories and small arms and munition factories.

N. H. RESIDENT AMONG VICTIMS

Washington, Sept. 8.—Thirty-five members of the crew of the American army transport Mount Vernon, formerly the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, were killed by the explosion of torpedoes which struck the vessel last Thursday when she was 300 miles from the French coast, homeward bound.

The passengers included Senator Lewis of Illinois, who was among those safely landed after the transport returned to a French port, under her own steam.

Vice Admiral Sims reported to the Navy Department today that the torpedo struck the transport on the starboard side, flooding No. 3 fire room, but he did not state the extent of the damage. Navy officials assumed, however, that since the vessel was able to reach port under her own power she was not badly damaged.

The men killed were firemen, engineers and water tenders and probably were on duty in the flooded fire room. Among them were:

H. B. Deuchamp, Williamette, Mass.
M. P. G. Hader, Webster, Mass.
H. H. Burke, Auburn, Me.
H. E. Burns, East Boston, Mass.
E. P. Flynn, Cambridge, Mass.
J. T. Harford, Hartford, Conn.
A. W. Morse, Manchester, N. H.
Senator Lewis of Illinois was returning home on the transport after a visit to Great Britain and France and the western front.

THIEF AGAIN BUSY SATURDAY NIGHT

The local Raffles was busy on Saturday night and during the night he called at four different places, but failed to get anything of value at any of them.

The only report the police got of the breaks until Sunday morning late, was from the house of Mrs. A. Newell, on Highland street. Mr. and Mrs. Newell had been away and they just drove into the driveway in the automobile when he heard the front door shut. He ran around but the thief had disappeared. He had evidently not been in the house long when disturbed by the approach of the automobile, for nothing was taken.

A number of officers were sent into the district but did not get anybody of a suspicious nature. Sunday morning Dr. A. J. Lance, reported that somebody had been into his house on Highland street during the night, but other than eating a cup custard they had not taken anything.

Later reports were received from Mrs. G. L. Treadwell on State street and George B. Chadwick on State street, houses adjacent. Both had been entered during the night from a rear window but evidently the thief departed hurriedly for nothing was disturbed.

AUTO SMASH SEVERAL HURT

An automobile carrying five persons ran into Daniels' bridge at Franklin last evening and Mrs. Leon Greeley was seriously injured. She was taken to the Franklin hospital suffering from bruises and lacerations on her face. Mrs. Goodwin and her husband were returning from a visit at the home of friends. The machine skidded on a slippery pavement on Center street, crashing into the bridge. The occupants of the car besides Mr. and Mrs. Greeley were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Powers and the former's mother, Mrs. Mabel Collins. The car was badly shattered.

FIRST WOMAN NOTARY IN N. H.

Miss Flora B. Day, the first woman in New Hampshire to receive a commission as Notary Public, died at her home in Canaan yesterday after a long illness.

After having received her commission as notary public it was subsequently withdrawn because of her sex. She was born in Canaan in 1851.

OVERSEAS TRANSPORTATION READY FOR NEW DRAFT

Washington, Sept. 7.—Transportation of United States troops in France has been highly organized by Colonel Samuel M. Felton, who has returned home and reported that the situation is eminently satisfactory. General March, chief of staff, announced today. General March said the advance of the Allied forces continued to be entirely satisfactory and that the reports from all sources regarding the situation were of encouraging nature. Colonel Felton's report, according to General March, shows that the transportation branch of the Army overseas is fully equipped to handle the great program involved in the new draft extension law.

Passenger Car Situation

Present conditions seem to bear out the news reports that after January 1 all automobile manufacturers must have their plants producing 10 per cent war work. The best we can hope for is that they may be allowed to produce trucks and chassis to be used for business purposes. The number of cars we will receive by the end of this year is very limited and therefore we advise you to buy your Ford today. After our present stock is exhausted there will be another advance in price of $20 for transportation.

We have the following cars in stock.

THE NIGHT COP IN THE SQUARE

Michael Joseph Clancy was the night cop in the square.

For ten long years or more Mike had pounded pavements there.

A fine big husky copper, with a warm heart, meant his coat.

And yet at times it must be said the gang would get his goat.

For almost every evening when the red sun had gone down

The place became a rendezvous for the young men of the town.

And there they'd talk and argue, "Ty Cobb is slipping fast."

"Did Evers get the gate today? Would Willard fight at last?"

And when big Mike would come along upon his nightly beat

You'd Think It Was Oriental

Some of the American rugs that are being manufactured today have such rich, heavy texture, pile and weaving, such an exquisite blending of colors that often they are taken for Oriental patterns.

For that matter some of our good old U. S. A. mills have reached a perfection in weaving that enables them to turn out rugs and carpets that those who are really supposed to know find it difficult to detect at first glance from the best foreign products.

As an illustration of this, a member of our firm, while being shown through one of the finest buildings in the Quaker City a few weeks ago, came across some exceptionally handsome rugs in the private offices and said "Those certainly are beautiful Orientals."

"Orientals?" said the gentleman who was showing us through. "Orientals? Those are not foreign made rugs; they were manufactured right here in this country, by W. T. Smith & Son." Now, it is beyond dispute, in fact we haven't another word to say, for you'd know without asking that rugs from that selfsame mill are shown—at

TO FIGHT FOR HIS PENSION IN THE COURT

Former Haverhill Police Officer Now Working at the Atlantic.

Can a retired policeman work and accept a pension is the question which the court may have to decide in the case of Lewis F. Donovan, now working at one of the Atlantic shipyards as a guard. Donovan was a former policeman in Haverhill, Mass., and retired a year ago after 33 years service on a pension of $52.50 per month, which is half pay. As soon as he began work here Alderman Wood of Haverhill, Commissioner of Public Safety, held up Donovan's pension money.

The Massachusetts law passed in 1913 prevents a policeman who is retired on a pension, from accepting similar work in that state.

However, Donovan says he is employed on Government work by the War Department in another state and will contest the case.

HOLDING HIM ON SUSPICION

Young Woman Says Some One Grabbed Her Pocket-book.

Joseph Stone appeared in the municipal court today on a complaint of Catherine Coulig. Stone was arrested on Saturday night, by Officer Kelley after being traced to Vaughan street by two boys. Miss Coulig told the police that while standing near the National Mechanics and Traders Bank she felt the pocket book being removed from her dress. She saw Stone move away and sent two boys to watch him. He passed through Church and Foster streets to Vaughan street, throwing something away as he passed along Foster street. The boys, with Officer Kelley, went back later and found the pocketbook which Miss Coulig claimed as her property.

Stone denies all knowledge of the affair. He claims that he got the change found on his person from a friend of his, and will produce the friend as a witness later. The case was continued to Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock.
